THE PHILIP CHRISTOPH VOGLER MEMORIAL, INC. WAS FOUNDED BY CHARLES M. VOGLER, WITH THE FIRST STEERING COMMITTEE MEETING (SCM) BEING HELD ON JULY 27, 1986 AT WINSTON-SALEM, NC. IT WAS INCORPORATED ON AUGUST 1986, BY E. EDWARD VOGLER, JR. THE SECOND SCM WAS HELD ON OCTOBER 5, 1986. THE FIRST VOGLER REUNION WAS HELD ON APRIL 10-12, 1987 IN WINSTON-SALEM. THE NAME WAS CHANGED TO PHILIP CHRISTOPH VOGLER FOUNDATION, INC. IN JUNE 1994.

July 18, 19 and 20, 2003 will be the weekend that the Vogler Family Reunion Festival will take place at the Hawthorne Inn in Winston-Salem, NC. The facility is around the corner from Old Salem and is the same location of the third reunion. Plans are shaping up to make this the best reunion to date. One of the highlights will be a presentation of a tremendous new find for the foundation, more about the "find" on pages 3 and 4.

The weekend will kick off Friday afternoon, the 18th, with a Vogler Golf Tournament, particulars on page 2. Saturday 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM. Reunion Festival Day, will include table-top exhibits from several points of interest within the foundation; Swiss trip memorabilia, handmade crafts and original art by "Vogler Vendors," collectibles, newsletters, Vogler archival history, web site information, a special children's activities area, as well as ongoing talent exhibitions from several of our family members and friends. There will also be a silent auction going on throughout the day with the feature item; a copy of "The Descendants of Philip Christoph Vogler". Individuals can visit Old Salem, as the village has a lot to offer and has put on a new face with the opening of the Timothy Vogler Gun Shop, a restored building that will produce working firearms, as well as the opening of the new multimillion dollar Visitor's Center. The Saturday evening banquet will feature a fine four course meal and a list of speakers that have a direct interest in the PCVF and its mission. Blake Stevenson, gunsmith and historian from the Timothy Vogler Gunshop and Nathaniel Norwood, Director of Historical Trades at Old Salem will address the contribution of the Vogler families in the development of Old Salem. Mr. Paul Reber, President of Old Salem, will also speak of the restored village. Our very own Dr. Frederick Vogler will update the family on the new "face" of the PCVF. Our Keynote speaker will be our cousin, the Honorable Hamilton C. Horton, Jr. NC State Senator. Sunday will be a free day to revisit Old Salem, or spend the time at your leisure.

This reunion, as those in the past, will require many volunteers to make the weekend a success. We will need folks to help with everything. The following are areas that will need attention: Vogler collectibles; Coat of Arms, coffee mugs, and Vogler Tee shirts. There will also be display tables of the Switzerland trips and European history with articles from Germany, a silent auction table, and entertainment from our talented Vogler singers, musicians and dancers. Please use the form on page 7 and let Betty Vogler Houston know what you can contribute; time, talent or both. We look forward to seeing all of you at the reunion festival this July. Communicate with your immediate family and plan to join us in North Carolina for a weekend of reflection and a great time with your cousins.

Vogler Family Golf Outing Planned for Friday July 17

The first Vogler Family golf outing will be held in conjunction with the summer reunion. Festivities will commence early afternoon on Friday July 17 at the Meadowlands Golf Club in Welcome, NC. This is a Hal Irwin design which is one of the best tracks in the state. We have a handful of folks committed at this time and would love to see you join the group. Depending on the numbers, we will most likely play a best ball or "Captains Choice" format; that to be determined. This would be a great way to start off the reunion weekend. Please let me know if you are interested in playing; need name, number of players, and an honest handicap. Send to: Steve Smith, 7049 Avenbury Circle Kernersville, NC 27284. The future is here today. Thanks to John "The WebMaster" Vogler; and his brother Jerry Vogler Jr., the PCVF has a new address in cyberspace. The activity on the new site grows each month and we anticipate that interest will continue to rise. Bookmark the site, and refer to the homepage as information is updated continuously. This site is a great companion to the newsletters as you get color images of the collectibles (coming soon) available for donations. You can email board members right off of the site, or check out the links page that opens the world wide web to other sites that relate to our mission. Again a special thanks to John and Jerry Vogler Jr. for their monetary donation as well as the maintenance of the site.

Easter At Old Salem April 19 & 20th

The time has come again for us to gather together at our ancestral home of Old Salem to celebrate the holy season of Easter. We will meet for lunch Saturday at noon at the Filling Station restaurant on 4th Street and attend the programs within the village of Old Salem that afternoon. On Easter Sunday, we will meet prior to daybreak to participate in the centuries' old tradition of Sunrise Service in God's Acre. The group will then meet for an Easter Brunch, reservations are required, at the Hawthorne Inn. We will finalize arrangements at a later date, so we need to hear from you if you are interested in joining "our group". Please contact Steve Smith or Betty Houston if you are interested. We look forward to seeing new faces this year.

Major Find For Our Foundation

Surprise in Store For July 2003 Reunion Attendees

* By Dr. Frederick W. Vogler *

This past June, our Foundation had the good fortune to receive an entirely unexpected message from Heather Crain, a young Vogler cousin of ours now living and studying in Florida, having been urged by her aunt Gwenda Williams (also a Vogler cousin) to take the initiative in getting in touch with us. How glad we are that she did, for what she has brought to our attention is a family tradition involving a treasured heirloom that will surely be of interest to every living descendant of Philip Christoph Vogler (1723-1790).

Just what that tradition is and how it is expressed in visible, tangible form will be revealed in a later announcement. For the time being, though, we will limit ourselves to suggesting how and approximately when that tradition came into being, as Heather herself presented it to us several months ago.

As it happens, Heather's line of descent from Philip Christoph is through his fourth son George Michael (1759-1795), himself a late-18th-century silversmith and gunsmith of note in what is now Old Salem. In turn, George Michael had a son (thus PCV's grandson) named Johann George, whose long life (1788-1865) seemed quite predictable until close to its end. Long after he had fathered a son John Utzman Vogler (Heather's great-great-great-grandfather, 1812-1856) by his first wife Christina Utzman, the by then twice-widowed Johann George Vogler was remarried to a much younger woman, Henrietta Love (1817-1905), by whom he had another son at the age of 68, James Long Vogler (1856-1908), and soon thereafter left North Carolina forever with his new family to resettle in Texas. That late-appearing son was to be the great-grandfather of our Foundation's own Edward Young Cooper, now living in San Antonio, TX, and an active contributor to several recent major Vogler family history research projects, as was his mother Hattie Belle Vogler Cooper before him.

But that special long family tradition mentioned earlier happens to have been restricted to Heather's line through John Utzman Vogler, spanning a period of at least six generations including his own near the outset of the 19th Century. For, as Heather has informed us, a certain unusual object has been passed down in that line as a precious legacy from generation to generation during that time until it has now reached her -- and us.

Our Foundation's New Find: Part II

In her introductory message to our Foundation last June, our young cousin Heather Crain informed us that for the past two centuries a miniature painting enclosed in a locket had been passed down from generation to generation in her family as a treasured heirloom. In recent years, it had finally come to rest in her mother Janice Temple Crain's safety deposit box while she was serving as Executor of the estate of Heather's grandmother, Marie Antionette Vogler Temple (1930-1992), herself the only daughter of George Edward Vogler (1881-1970) and his wife Lillie Greene Vogler. Since a brother had inherited the locket itself, Heather's mother decided to have a copy made of the miniature painting it contained. However, because somewhere along the line a Vogler ancestor had decided to replace the locket's popped-off glass cover with another that could be permanently sealed, it was no longer possible to remove the painting without damaging it in order to have it photocopied satisfactorily. Luckily, Heather's mother came up with the idea of going to a special shop to have it computer-scanned rather than photocopied in color while still in its locket. Although this was successfully accomplished and the resulting image blown up to 5" x 7" size, actually getting a computer to print it out in that format proved to be another matter. Time after time the computer would simply stop before producing any image. Finally, though, after many fruitless attempts, the desired color image was obtained in its new blown-up format.

It was at this point that Heather decided to move on her aunt Gwenda Temple Williams's suggestion that she try to make contact with someone officially involved with our Foundation to offer us a copy of that blown-up image if we happened to be interested in acquiring it, as indeed we were. And sure enough, a few weeks later our president John B. Houston and Betty Vogler Houston did receive that promised copy -- by regular mail rather than as an e-mail attachment, given the problems previously encountered when trying to obtain a computer printout of that scanned miniature painting.

But what exactly was its subject? And why were those of us who got to see it after its arrival so surprised and delighted that it had now come into the Foundation's possession? That will be taken up in the next (and final) installment of this announcement.

Note About Names in Database

We want assure all of the members of our family that all the information that is gathered is strictly for family history. We have not, and will never share our database information with any outside organization. We are continuing to gather information in hopes that an updated family publication can be printed. We are a long way from Books III & IV, yet the information flow needs to continue. We would ask that all pertinent news flow through Steve Smith. There will be a file kept for the archivist to work with. It is critical that we get as much family history logged as possible.

Please send all information to Steve Smith.
