THE PHILIP CHRISTOPH VOGLER MEMORIAL, INC. WAS FOUNDED BY CHARLES M. VOGLER, WITH THE FIRST STEERING COMMITTEE MEETING (SCM) BEING HELD ON JULY 27, 1986 AT WINSTON-SALEM, NC. IT WAS INCORPORATED ON AUGUST 1986, BY E. EDWARD VOGLER, JR. THE SECOND SCM WAS HELD ON OCTOBER 5, 1986. THE FIRST VOGLER REUNION WAS HELD ON APRIL 10-12, 1987 IN WINSTON-SALEM. THE NAME WAS CHANGED TO PHILIP CHRISTOPH VOGLER FOUNDATION, INC. IN JUNE 1994.

Wishing you all the best as 2004 races along, and we find ourselves at the dawn of yet another Easter Season. As our busy lives go, so does the business of the PCVF. Between soccer practices, dance recitals, school drama productions, and the adventures we all call our jobs, time does fly, as we all look for ways to slow it down to a manageable pace. Hopefully this publication will be a bit of a respite, as well as a dose of good hard journalism, meant to inform and entertain. A new board will be installed in April (see story page 3), the family will meet in Old Salem for Easter (page 3) and then again in Charlotte for the marriage of one of our longtime Board members (below).

The 1800 century settlement of Bethabara, which began the Moravian migration from Pennsylvania to the Piedmont of North Carolina, launched a year long celebration in November 2003 (page 6). The Vogler name was represented at the opening day ceremony by several Board and family members. The invitation was extended by the organizing committee, as the Voglers were an original family of the Bethabara settlement. Flash from 1753 to 2004 and the explosion of the internet; as this new means of communication has enabled our foundation to meet new cousins from Europe. These new acquaintances have helped a great deal with some valuable information concerning Hans Georg and Philipp as they prepared to leave their family in Switzerland (story page 2). One contact found us through the PCVF website. These German and Swiss contacts have added to the pages of Vogler history in Europe. We thank those who share a common concern for family and preserving history.

The first issue of Volume 18 of the family newsletter introduces a new feature we hope will get our younger readers involved in the foundation. We call the new segment, "Kid's Corner." Within the section (page 4), we will invite children to write stories about family, or anything that concerns Vogler history. The initial article is penned by Michael Smith.

The Board would also like to congratulate John B Houston IV. JB, Assistant Treasurer, is to be married on April 17, 2004 to Sonja Davis in Charlotte. Sonja knows what she is getting into with this family, as she was a big help during the reunion last summer as well as a musical performer. We wish JB and Sonja all the best.

We also ask that each of you take the time to talk to those in your family that are not members (page 7). Publication costs continue to rise, as well as our expanded presence on the world wide web, therefore we need everyone's help. Enjoy!

NEWEST MAJOR FAMILY HISTORY DISCOVERY ABOUT OUR LAST SWISS ANCESTOR RUDOLF VOGLER: WHAT HAPPENED DURING THOSE "MISSING YEARS" !

By Frederick W. Vogler

Ever since 1980 when we first learned of the existence of Rudolf Vogler as the Swiss-born father of our German-born ancestor Hans Georg Vogler and grandfather of Philipp Christoph Vogler, the pioneer father-son team who brought our Vogler family from Europe to North America in 1742, we had wondered about a 38-year blackout period in his biography as we knew it from his 1657 birth in Oberhasli / Zurich until his 1695 remarriage as a widower in Gondelsheim / Baden. What happened to him during that time, and why did he choose to leave Switzerland to go settle over a hundred miles to the north in what is now the modern German state of Baden / Wuerttemberg?

But now within the last few weeks (December 2003 – January 2004), that very same newfound German friend from Berlin, Andreas Bischoff, who not long before had first made contact with us after having discovered our PCVF website on the Internet and introduced himself as the husband of a direct descendant of Philipp Christoph's aunt Anna Barbara Vogler Kuehne (Hans Georg Vogler's older sister), has offered us further documentary information about our common ancestors, much of it gathered by him some fifteen years ago (1989) through correspondence with several helpful Swiss and German church and civil authorities responsible for local parish and census records of the late 17th Century.

Thanks to Andreas's own informative website (www.family-bischoff.de) and other documents that he has just recently scanned and e-mailed to us for our Foundation's own records, we now have a much clearer idea of Rudolf Vogler's early life before and after he emigrated from Switzerland to southwest Germany. To begin with, he seems to have lost his parents Ulrich and Anna Vogler while still a young man, for a 1678 local census report makes no mention of them while listing him as living with another family there in Oberhasli / Niederhasli. We had already known of a catastrophic fire that destroyed much of Oberhasli in 1672 when he would have been only 15; could he have been orphaned at that time? His name next appears in 1681, first when he married Barbara Bockhorn (1663-89) from Albisrieden -- today part of the city of Zurich itself -- and then again when their infant son Konrad died only a few days after his birth. Seven years later (1688), they had another child, a daughter named Barbara, who like her brother died as a newborn infant after living only a few days.

A year later (1689), Barbara Bockhorn Vogler's death at the age of 26 is recorded as having occurred in Bretten / Baden, a German town just south of Gondelsheim, an event noted in both the Oberhasli / Niederhasli and Bretten church registers. Why and for how long had she and Rudolf been living there? The answer appears to be clear: Barbara's uncle Felix Bockhorn was already living there, having emigrated from Switzerland to Bretten long before, marrying there in 1653 and living there until his own death in 1714, thus leading us to speculate that Rudolf and his wife decided to go live near her uncle in Germany in the hope of finding a better, more prosperous life there as "Swiss Palatine" guest workers on a permanent basis like so many thousands of their countrymen at that tumultuous, war-torn moment in German history.

Six years after Barbara's death, Rudolf remarried in nearby Gondelsheim in 1695 at the age of 38, his second wife being a German widow named Anna Maria Strauss (1662-1732) from the town of Hohenhaslach some 18 miles southeast of Gondelsheim. Her first husband was Georg Bartel Keller, also from Hohenhaslach, who had died five years earlier in July 1690, less than three months before the death of their only child, an infant son named Georg Wilhelm Keller (1689-90), who like Rudolf's Konrad and Barbara was of course also related to us.

A year later (1696), Rudolf's and Anna Maria's first child was born, a daughter they named Anna Barbara, probably for her mother Anna Maria as well as her father's first wife Barbara and their short-lived infant daughter also named Barbara. Two years later, a son was born: our pioneer ancestor Hans Georg Vogler (1698-c. 1760), probably named for his mother's younger brother Hans Georg Strauss and perhaps for her first husband and their short-lived infant son as well. Our own family was now firmly established in Germany, with no further known Swiss connection, except for Anna Barbara's 1715 marriage to Johann Georg Kuehne (1689-1766), who like her own father Rudolf was a "Swiss Palatine" immigrant, having been born in Chur, Switzerland and who had come in young manhood to settle permanently in Gondelsheim like the Voglers.

Our warmest thanks to our Berlin friends Andreas and Sabine Dietz Bischoff for having made it possible for us to gain an insight into our common ancestor Rudolf Vogler's early life in Switzerland before he chose to settle permanently in Germany.

Kid's Corner

A New Feature For Our Younger Readers

It's Not Having What You Want, It's Wanting What You've Got

"We're expecting some heavy icing, possibly enough ice to bring down some power lines, so..."

The power goes out, and everything is silent. What just happened?

Having the power go out is not something you see everyday now. But back in the days of Philip Christoph Vogler, there wasn't any power at all. They wouldn't have to worry about these freak accidents. Maybe at some point, a candle or two would blow out, but that's no biggie. Just light them back up. But now, when the power goes out, our lives seem to go out too. We panic and don't know what to do.

"Hmm...maybe I'll just grab some of this food out of the refrigerator and heat it.."

"NO! Don't open the refrigerator! You'll let out all the cool air!"

"Too late."

"And you can't heat anything up so I don't know what in the world you're doing!"

I'll tell you exactly what he's doing. He's taking today's inventions for granted and forgetting that the power is out and that the microwave doesn't work and neither does the refrigerator. Back in the days of Philip Christoph, they would heat things by fire and it would take awhile. They didn't have microwaves that warm food up with the snap of a finger.

"Where am I going? I can't see a thing."

When the power is out, obviously the lights are too. So it's hard to see your way around sometimes. But Philip Christoph was used to it. If you're brought up with no electricity, just candles, you will naturally grow into the rooms being relatively dark.

"Ah, it's time for a nice warm bath. Wait, I shouldn't waste the warm water. Well then I'll just take a cold one and after that I'll curl my hair with the curling iron. Wait, I can't do that either. Well I'll just dry it with the blow dryer then. Wait again, I can't do that. Why can't the power just come back on?!"

Philip Christoph would probably laugh at the idea of curling irons or blow dryers. Back then, it was do-it-yourself. They didn't have these mangled inventions that made the job easier. Warm water. Ha, that didn't even exist. You would have to heat the water just to make it warm. So it was either a cold shower or no shower at all.

"I think I'll use my new sewing machine to sew something for me to wear. Ah darn, I can't do that either."

Without power, nothing that uses electricity to run will not work. But Philip Christoph wouldn't have to worry about that. They would know how to sew by hand because they didn't have a machine to do it for them.

Last year in March when that huge ice storm came through a knocked power out for a mere 1 and ½ days, I think we all learned what it was like back in the days when there was no electricity at all.

And then the power came back on.

250 Anniversary Celebration at Bethabara Park

Voglers Take Part in Festivities on Saturday, November 15, 2003

FORSYTH COUNTY, NC

ANNIVERSARY
1753 ~ 2003

WINSTON-SALEM, NC

Saturday, November 15, 2003 kicked off a year long celebration that will honor the initial settlement of the Wachovia Tract, that parcel of 100,000 acres of land that the Moravians purchased from Lord Granville. The first organized community of Wachovia began at Bethabara as fifteen Moravians arrived on November 17, 1753, surviving the long trek from Pennsylvania along the Great Wagon Road.

Descendants of seventeen of the first families to settle Wachovia were asked to represent their "families" at the kick off festivities. As a family instrumental in the "building of Bethabara", the Vogler name was well represented last November by Board members Herbert and Frances Vogler, Pat and Cokie Jones, Marion Couch, as well as Senator Ham Horton, and Dallas Vogler. "The Book", "Descendants of Philipp Christoph Vogler Vol. I & II" was a big hit at the Vogler Tent, as visitors and other families involved in the day were able to see connections that their families had with the Voglers. A cradle made by Silver-smith John Vogler of Old Salem was also on display.

The Park at Bethabara will celebrate the anniversary throughout this coming year.

Above: Herb and Frances Vogler brave the winter weather of November 2003 at Bethabara.

Above: Cokie Jones stands behind the cradle made by John Vogler of Old Salem, as well as other Vogler items of interest.

PCVF Needs Your Help!

Recruit Your Family Members That Have Not Joined Our Ranks!
Tell Others That Family History Is Important

The past few years have seen a positive move in our membership ranks. Lifetime Memberships have increased as the Board opened that option back up to the foundation members. We have done a good job, however we must do more. I would ask that if you are a member, and know siblings, children, or cousins that have not joined the foundation; please extend a hand to them. We would like to see twenty "new" families join our ranks by the summer. We do realize that times are difficult and to some, joining is not a possibility. Consider what family means to you, can you put a price on knowledge? Through the work of several Board Members and help from friends across the pond, we know why Hans Georg and Philipp Christoph came to this country. This family has a rich history that needs to be continually explored. We owe a great deal to those who have worked to compile information concerning the "Vogler/Fogler" history. We have a publication that few can rival in terms of content and readability. We need your help to make this happen. Make a phone call or two, get the word out; the PCVF, Inc. needs everyone to support our effort.

Lifetime Memberships are still being offered at $100.00, or yearly dues are only $10.00/year. We mail out every newsletter issue to those who have paid dues. Special issues, concerning reunions, trips, and special events are sent to our complete mailing list. Do not get left out, keep your dues current and get others in your family to join. Dues help us bring the news to you.

Forms are located on page eight, or you go to the website for downloadable version; www.voglerfoundation.org. We look forward to hearing from someone you have called.

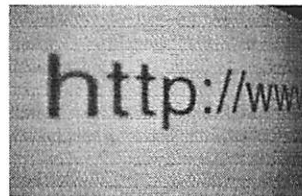

Thanks again.

Information Updates!

We continue to ask for information concerning family members. This is the only way we can get the news that others would like to hear. In the early days of the newsletter, there were pictures, articles about kids, parents, and special events that we all could share in. We need to hear from you concerning family happenings; Births, Weddings, Deaths, or any special events that you feel like letting cousins know about. E-mail me pictures or stories that you would like to see appear in future publications.
